Medical revitalization therapies

The scientific principle for medical revitalization therapy is based on preventing and treating premature aging of the body's organ tissues by cellular stimulation.

Revitalization therapies provide slower cellular aging in those over 25 years of age when, for many, the first signs of growing older become apparent. They improve quality of life and protect against age-related conditions as well as enabling particular dysfunctional organs or tissues to be specifically targeted.

A range of preparations are available to the center's patients to produce appropriate and specific regulating and revitalizing effects directed to each of the targeted body tissues or organs.

The beneficial cellular effect obtained from these treatments increases or restores vitality, reinforces the immune system, and improves stress resistance.

Treatments:

On filling out a questionnaire and undergoing a medical check-up, different facets of personal healthcare are examined and discussed in order to choose one of our four distinct revitalization therapy procedures.

Our revitalization therapies require a 3 to 5 day residence depending upon the choice of procedure.

It is essential to follow a resting period immediately after the treatments and to avoid intense physical activities, massages and hot baths.

The benefits of the above therapies will diminish over time and, we therefore advise new revitalization therapies every 18 months.

To enhance the effect of anti-aging treatment, it is possible to combine revitalization therapies with different aesthetic medical procedures.

Medical check-up & analyses:

Before undergoing any revitalization therapy, each patient is given a rigorous medical health check-up which includes a clinical examination.

In accord with the professional medical staff, numerous tests are carried out such as blood and urine analyses, an electrocardiogram, a chest x-ray, etc.

Patients choosing the VIP procedure, will additionally benefit from major examination techniques such as; bone densitometry, spirometry (examination of the pulmonary function), abdominal ultrasonography, MRI (all these examinations to be determined with the doctor), as well as a high-tech analysis of the genetic profile.

DNA analysis (analysis of each patient's genotype), and more specifically, the genetic variations that are clinically relevant, allow the medical staff to collect an important amount of valuable information concerning genetic predispositions to develop certain illnesses, some hormonal disorders, and some cancers (predictive medicine). This analysis of the genetic profile is given to VIP patients exclusively on their return for a second visit to the Swiss Riviera Medical Center SA. Those people will then benefit from a highly personalized prophylactic treatment.

VIP patients also receive information about their own genetic ability to metabolize drugs including precise knowledge of the efficacy of a medicated treatment, as well as the appropriate dosage of each kind of medication when applied.

Aesthetic medicine:

Aesthetic medicine consists in non-invasive treatments, or minimally so, aiming to prevent, improve, or correct unattractive appearance, especially caused by growing older and therefore improving the general well-being of the patient.

Indeed, Swiss Riviera Medical Center offers many anti-aging aesthetic medical treatments, as well as counseling sessions for rejuvenation care (diet, skin & lifestyle).
